

Travel Awards

We are pleased to announce that in 2025, Danone Nutricia Campus through an educational grant will offer travel awards for up to 10 deserving individuals to attend the Nutrition & Growth Conference. These awards are designed to enable professionals to partake in this significant event, contributing to the exchange of innovative ideas, cutting-edge research, and best practices in nutrition and growth.

About Danone Nutricia Campus

Danone Nutricia Campus is a non-profit foundation led by dedicated healthcare professionals and experts, whose mission is to drive progress in the field of nutrition, ultimately leading to improving health outcomes worldwide. Danone Nutricia Campus is committed to supporting the global healthcare professional community by facilitating knowledge exchange, fostering collaboration, and advancing the science of nutrition.

Award Amounts

- €1500 for awardees based in Europe.
- €2500 for awardees based out-of-Europe

Eligibility Criteria

To be considered for this prestigious award, applicants must meet the following criteria:

- Have submitted an abstract to N&G 2025.
- Demonstrate the relevance of their work to the advancement of science in the relevant field(s) listed here
- Ensure that the selected work does not involve animal research.
- The selected work should not promote any specific product.

How to Apply

In the abstract submission process, under Step 8 (Awards), indicate that you would like to be considered for the Travel Award.

(*Valid for the regular abstract submission)

Selection Process

The Nutrition & Growth Committee, supported by an educational grant from Danone Nutricia Campus, will oversee the selection process. An independent panel of experts will evaluate the submissions and select the most deserving candidates.

Notification and Presentation

If you are selected as an awardee, the conference secretariat will notify you after review of the submitted abstracts. Please be aware that the winners will receive their prize money following the conference, contingent on their presentation of their work at the conference on the specified date and time indicated in the program.